April 24th at 10am - Sandy Felgenhauer of VeggieScape will talk about creating an edible landscape that includes the combination of vegetable gardening within an ecstasically a pleasing array of flowers and ornamental plants. She will speak about the important use of pure water from rain as opposed to the water that is treated for the use of consumption.

May 1st at 10am - Patrica Rose, CSWM contract educator, will talk about the benefits of companion planting in the vegetable garden. She will discuss how to distract and trap harmful pests, attract beneficial insects as well as how to promote production and pollination for a successful crop without the use of pesticides.
